NEWSLETTER VOL: 01/JAN/2010

Hello Friends,

There is time for everything. It is a true saying as people in the world keep on experiencing different situations and occurrences as they continue to build up their hope through the many commitments that they make. The vow made always by a man or a woman remains a big challenge because each time you keep on asking yourself whether all that you have planned for will come to pass. Yes. This is one of our biggest challenges as we keep on serving our people in Africa.

One of the most important things in our lives is to have good health together with your family and those around you. This is the greatest hope that can be cherished among many people, tribes and nations of the world. There are so many things that keep coming daily, dreams and visions of a better tomorrow for our people and even for ourselves. None the less, the world has become a small village and each time you pursue to pray for peace and change of many things in our lives especially the economic and climatic changes, then you realize that there is one thing that we need from each other. That is love, peace and unity.

I am so pleased to share the joy of the current environmental conditions especially here in Kenya where we are sharing the same joy with our country men. Though many people lost their lives during the recent Elnino rains that caused mad slides and floods that swept homes, there was restoration of a Wonderful climatic condition that made us have good crops where a good harvest is expected from peasants to large scale farmers.

For the first time over the last 7 years, Thika river that transverses our MCF farm has once again become full to the brim, hence being able to supply adequate water for irrigation in our agricultural projects. Due to this, we hope that the inhabitants of our country will have enough for personal consumption and keep some food in their granaries that will see them through many months to come.

It is unbelievable how MCF Yatta looks like especially with our dams whose construction was completed late last year. It is a beautiful site of water everywhere. The prolonged drought over the years completely devastated our efforts in realizing our dreams. However, now we see those dreams are becoming a true manifestation of God's faithfulness.

The Christmas festivities were celebrated by sharing food with children from the surrounding community. Over 2,000 children received a hot meal while 11,000 families

A few days ago, we had children from the surrounding schools accompanied by their teachers come to MCF to celebrate God's provision of a daily hot lunch throughout the period that we faced the severe drought. On this day, we were graced with the presence of several government officers from the Yatta District including the District Officer and Area Education Officer among others.

We have taken advantage of the renewed weather conditions and have embarked on a task to plant more trees in both Yatta and Ndalani. We have mobilized the community together with the MCF climate change co-workers into planting trees in the community in Yatta District and within the environment of the Yatta District Headquarters. This is going to be a big challenge as these trees need great care and especially watering in these areas. We will coordinate transportation of water from our river regularly to ensure that the trees remain in good condition. We would like to ask for prayers that these trees will grow and survive the harsh weather conditions so that this will be a learning center for everyone from our community as well as bring about great climate change using the MCF model.

It was with great joy when our children commenced the first term of the year on 4th January 2010. They are all working hard as they look forward to a productive year.

Grade three class during CRE session

We continue to receive hundreds of applications daily from needy children all across our country. Our MCF bus arrived in Ndalani 3 days ago with 34 new children from Mombasa who will join various grades. A few more new Children continue to join MCF from other parts of our country.

May the grace and peace of God be with you throughout this year as we continue to unite together in the service of the needy children and people of Africa.

Yours sincerely,
